

The Baltimore City Historical Society

The purpose of the Baltimore City Historical Society is to save all of the History of Our City.

The Society works with museums, including the Maryland Historical Society, and area universities in support of collections of historical materials. It offers a "home," a gathering place, for everyone interested in the City's history. The Society, working with Baltimore historians, encourages and sponsors programs pertaining to Baltimore City history. Its web site www.historicbaltimore.org and the Baltimore Gaslight Newsletter are intended to be a comprehensive source of information about City history activities and historical resources.

*The Baltimore City
Historical Society, Inc.*

Founded in 1999, the goal of the Baltimore City Historical Society (BCHS), a private, nonprofit section 501(c)(3) organization, is to cultivate, promote, and preserve the storied history and fabled diversity of the city of Baltimore. It is the only organization of its kind celebrating all of the history of Baltimore.

Working with volunteers and Baltimore historians, the Society sponsors programs and events throughout the year in cooperation with museums, historical organizations, academia, the private sector, government, and interested individuals to help archive, support, and expand collections of Baltimore-related historical materials.

Consider a membership in the BCHS.

By joining the Baltimore City Historical Society, you will bring important support to the Society's growing number of events and initiatives, and have the opportunity to volunteer your own talents in the preservation and promotion of Baltimore's rich and extensive history of more than 200 years. It's easy to show your support of Historic Baltimore — return the attached membership form, or visit www.historicbaltimore.org to access an application.

We need you. Baltimore's future is supported by its past.
